

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 26, 2016

Custodian of Records
Verizon Wireless
180 Washington Valley Road
Bedminster, NJ 07921
800-451-5242

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Verizon Wireless. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

17cv03263-833

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

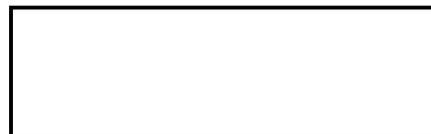

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 19, 2016

Custodian of Records
Apple Computer
1 Infinite Loop
Cupertino, CA 95014
408-558-1029

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Apple Computer. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

17cv03263-835

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

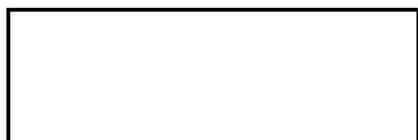

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 19, 2016

Custodian of Records
Microsoft Corporation
1065 La Avenida
Building 4
Mountain View, CA 94043

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Microsoft Corporation. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 18, 2016

Equifax

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

August 18, 2016

[redacted]

Experian

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

August 18, 2016

[redacted] TransUnion

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TransUnion. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

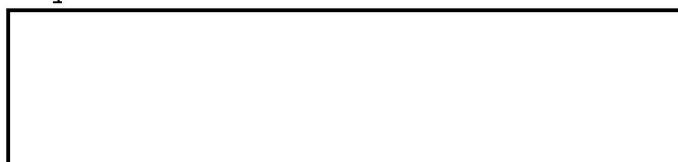

b7E -2

August 19, 2016

Equifax

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

August 19, 2016

[redacted]

Experian

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

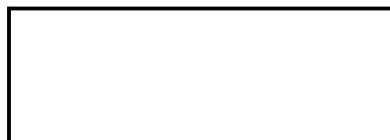

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

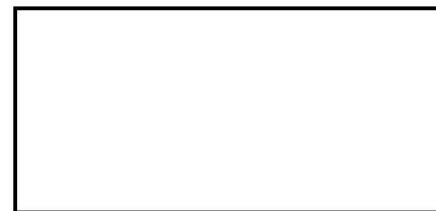

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 19, 2016

TransUnion

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TransUnion. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 19, 2016

Federal Reserve Bank of New York

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Fedwire. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

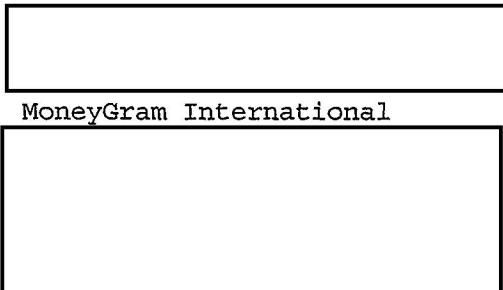

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 19, 2016

MoneyGram International

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to MoneyGram International. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

17cv03263-853

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

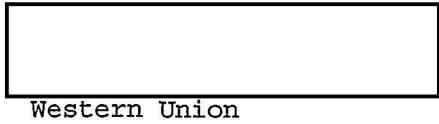

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

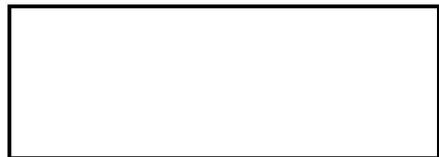

b7E -2

August 19, 2016

Western Union

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a) (5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Western Union. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

October 26, 2016

Equifax

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Sections 1681u(a) and 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

17cv03263-857

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."

b7E -2,4

Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

October 26, 2016

[redacted] Experian
[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Sections 1681u(a) and 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

October 26, 2016

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

TransUnion

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Sections 1681u(a) and 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TransUnion. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

July 15, 2016

[redacted]

Equifax

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

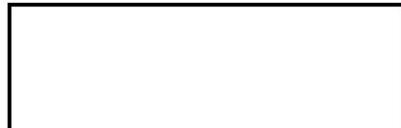

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Custodian of Records
Google Voice.
1600 Amphitheatre Parkway
Mountain View, CA 94043

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Google Voice. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Custodian of Records
Google
1600 Amphitheatre Parkway
Mountain View, CA 94043

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Google.

The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Custodian of Records
Yahoo Holdings, Inc.
701 First Avenue
Sunnyvale, CA 94089
408-349-5162

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Yahoo Holdings, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

November 02, 2016

Custodian of Records
Google
1600 Amphitheatre Parkway
Mountain View, CA 94043
650-253-7807

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Google. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

November 02, 2016

Custodian of Records
Google
1600 Amphitheatre Parkway
Mountain View, CA 94043
650-253-7807

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Google. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

November 02, 2016

Custodian of Records
Yahoo!
701 First Avenue
Sunnyvale, CA 94089
408-349-5162

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Yahoo!. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

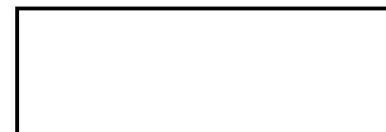

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

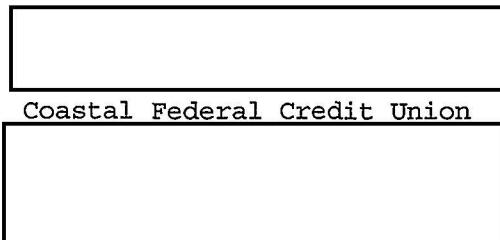

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

November 02, 2016

Coastal Federal Credit Union

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a) (5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Coastal Federal Credit Union. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

November 02, 2016

Custodian of Records
Google
1600 Amphitheatre Parkway
Mountain View, CA 94043
650-253-7807

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Google. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

May 16, 2017

Custodian of Records
Yahoo!
701 First Avenue
Sunnyvale, CA 94089
408-349-5162

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Yahoo!. b7E -1 The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

b6 -2
b7C -2
b7E -2

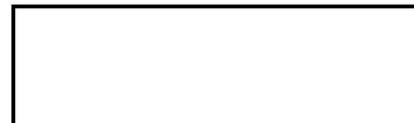

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

October 26, 2016

American Express

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a) (5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to American Express. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

October 26, 2016

[redacted]
Bank of America

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a) (5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Bank of America. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

August 18, 2016

[redacted]
T-Mobile USA, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

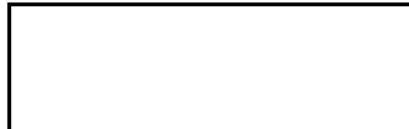

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 18, 2016

T-Mobile USA, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 15, 2016

Chelsea Groton Bank

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Chelsea Groton Bank. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

August 18, 2016

[redacted]
T-Mobile USA, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

October 04, 2016

Custodian of Records
Facebook
1601 Willow Rd.
Building 18
Menlo Park, CA 94025
650-543-4890

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Facebook. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

17cv03263-897

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

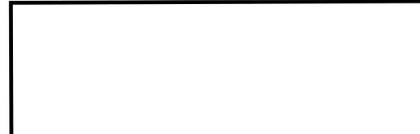

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

June 29, 2017

T-Mobile USA, Inc.

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

17cv03263-899

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

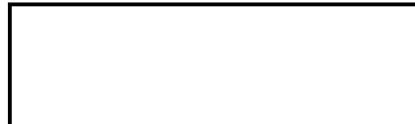

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 02, 2017

Omnipoint Communications, Inc. c/o T-Mobile USA, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Omnipoint Communications, Inc. c/o T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b6 -2
b7C -2
b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Sprint Federal Operations

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Sprint Federal Operations. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Custodian of Records
Twitter
1355 Market Street, Suite 900
San Francisco, CA 94102
415-222-9670

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Twitter. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Custodian of Records
Tango
475 Ellis Street
Mountain View, CA 94043

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Tango. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be

redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

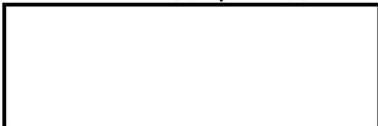

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

T-Mobile USA, Inc.

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Custodian of Records
Google Voice
1600 Amphitheatre Parkway
Mountain View, CA 94043

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Google Voice. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be

redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

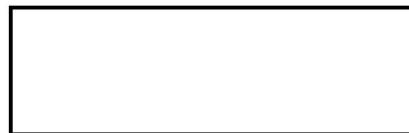

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

October 04, 2016

AT&T, AT&T Mobility, or AT&T Corporate Security

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to AT&T Mobility. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

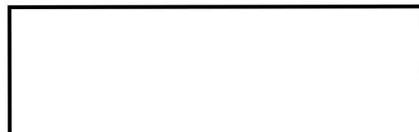

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

July 11, 2017

[redacted]

T-Mobile USA, Inc.

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

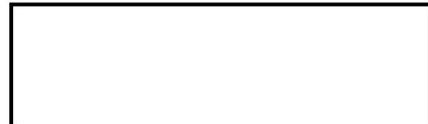

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 11, 2017

Custodian of Records
Yahoo Holdings, Inc.
701 First Avenue
Sunnyvale, CA 94089
408-349-5162

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Yahoo Holdings, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 18, 2016

Custodian of Records
Verizon Legal Compliance
22001 Loudoun County Pkwy
C1-2-601
Ashburn, VA 20147
703-886-6240

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Verizon Legal Compliance. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

17cv03263-919

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 18, 2016

Custodian of Records
Verizon Wireless
180 Washington Valley Road
Bedminster, NJ 07921
800-451-5242

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Verizon Wireless. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

17cv03263-921

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

TracFone Wireless, Inc.

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TracFone Wireless, Inc., d/b/a Simple Mobile. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

17cv03263-923

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

September 07, 2017

[redacted] AT&T

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to AT&T Mobility. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

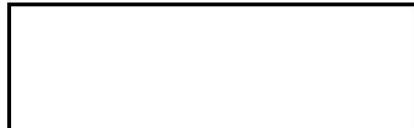

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

TracFone Wireless, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TracFone Wireless, Inc., d/b/a Simple Mobile. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

17cv03263-927

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Custodian of Records
Tango
475 Ellis Street
Mountain View, CA 94043

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Tango. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be

redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

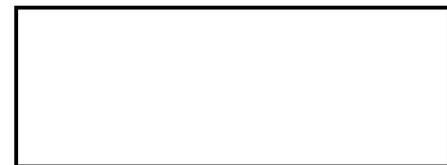

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

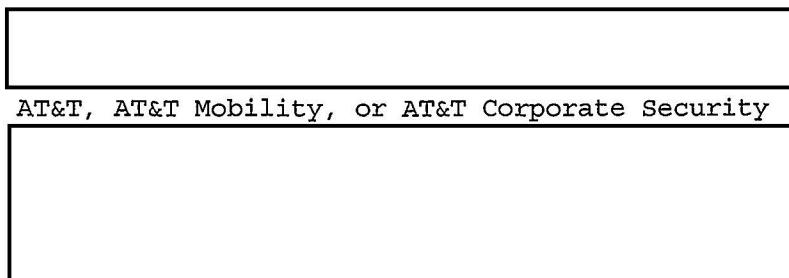

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

October 10, 2016

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to AT&T Corporate Security. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

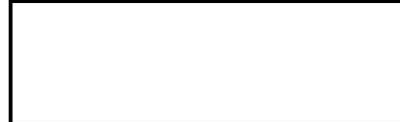

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

October 10, 2016

Federal Reserve Bank of New York

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Fedwire. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

October 10, 2016

Sprint Federal Operations

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Sprint Federal Operations. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

[redacted]

Chase Bank, USA, N.A./JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A./JP Morgan Securities, LLC

b6 -1
b7C -1

[redacted]

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Chase Bank, USA, N.A./JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A./JP Morgan Securities, LLC. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

[redacted]

Commerce Bank, N.A.

b6 -1
b7C -1

[redacted]

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Commerce Bank, N.A.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
September 07, 2017

b7E -2

[redacted]

Equifax

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 23, 2016

b6 -1
b7C -1

Federal Reserve Bank of New York

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Fedwire. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b6 -2
b7C -2
b7E -2

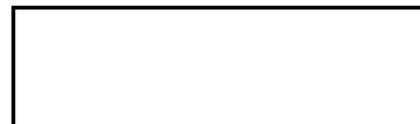

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 23, 2016

MoneyGram International

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to MoneyGram International. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b6 -2
b7C -2
b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 23, 2016

Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunications (SWIFT)

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunications (SWIFT). The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b6 -2
b7C -2
b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 23, 2016

Western Union

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Western Union. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b6 -2
b7C -2
b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 05, 2017

Rackspace Hosting, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Rackspace Hosting, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

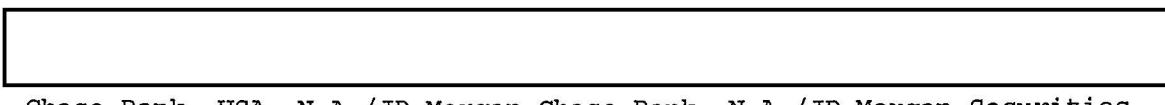

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

June 30, 2017

Chase Bank, USA, N.A./JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A./JP Morgan Securities, LLC

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Chase Bank, USA, N.A./JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A./JP Morgan Securities, LLC. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and

- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

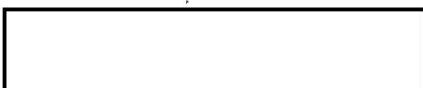

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

TracFone Wireless, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TracFone Wireless, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

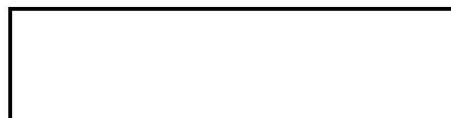

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

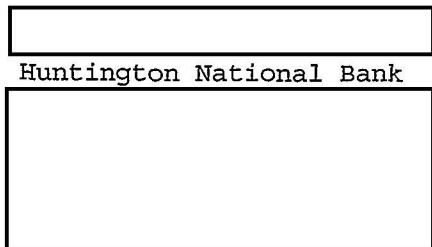

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

September 07, 2017

Huntington National Bank

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 12, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 3414(a)(5) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Huntington National Bank. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted] June 21, 2016

b7E -2

[redacted]
AT&T Mobility
[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to AT&T Mobility. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be* redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

June 29, 2017

Custodian of Records
Yahoo Holdings, Inc.
701 First Avenue
Sunnyvale, CA 94089
408-349-5162

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Yahoo Holdings, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

September 23, 2016

[redacted]
Sprint Federal Operations
[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Sprint Federal Operations. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b6 -2
b7C -2
b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

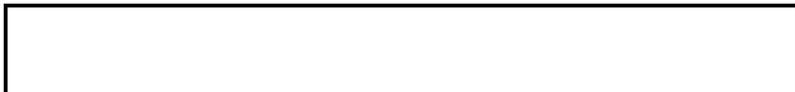

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

April 13, 2017

AT&T, AT&T Mobility, or AT&T Corporate Security

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to AT&T Mobility. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

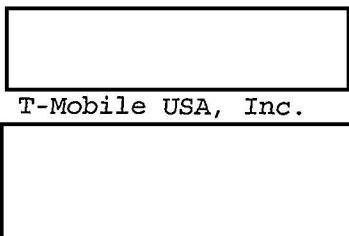

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

April 13, 2017

T-Mobile USA, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 22, 2016

Custodian of Records
Yahoo!
701 First Avenue
Sunnyvale, CA 94089
408-349-5162

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Yahoo!. b7E -1 The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

17cv03263-969

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

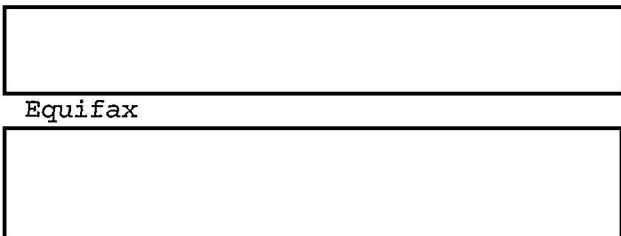

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 07, 2017

Equifax

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Sections 1681u(a) and 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

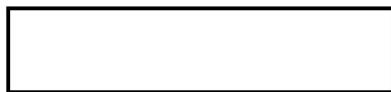

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

August 07, 2017

Experian

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Sections 1681u(a) and 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

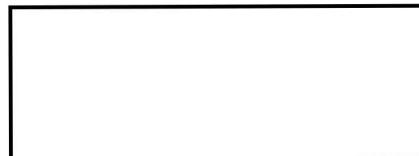

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

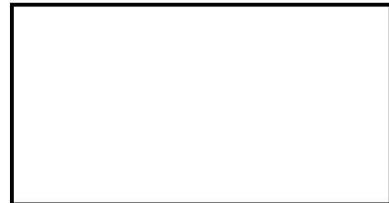

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

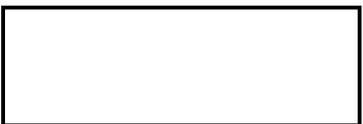

b7E -2

August 07, 2017

TransUnion

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Sections 1681u(a) and 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TransUnion. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

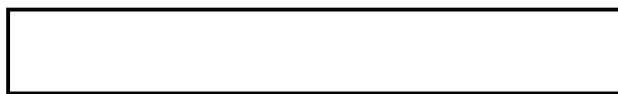

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

December 13, 2016

Equifax

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

December 13, 2016

Experian

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

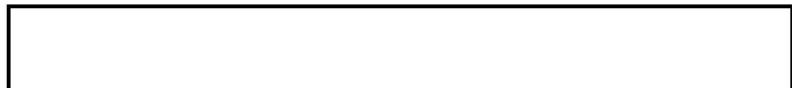

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

November 07, 2016

AT&T, AT&T Mobility, or AT&T Corporate Security

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to AT&T Mobility. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 21, 2016

Equifax

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

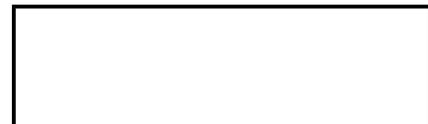

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 21, 2016

Experian

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 21, 2016

TransUnion

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TransUnion. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 21, 2016

Equifax

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

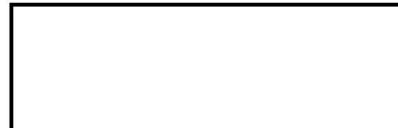

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

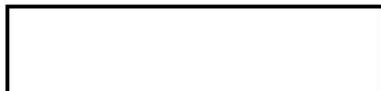

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 21, 2016

Experian

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 21, 2016

TransUnion

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681u(b) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TransUnion. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 11, 2017

Custodian of Records
Microsoft Corporation
1065 La Avenida
Building 4
Mountain View, CA 94043

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Microsoft Corporation. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

17cv03263-997

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL." b7E -2,4
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 27, 2017

Custodian of Records
Facebook
1601 Willow Rd.
Building 18
Menlo Park, CA 94025
650-543-4890

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Facebook. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

[redacted]
b7E -2

July 27, 2017

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

T-Mobile USA, Inc.

[redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

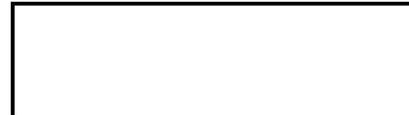

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

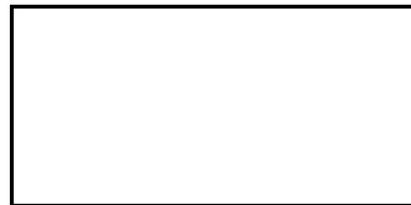

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

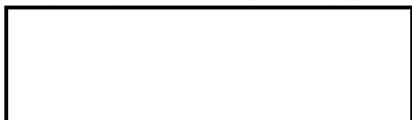

b7E -2

July 27, 2017

TracFone Wireless, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TracFone Wireless, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File N [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 27, 2017

Custodian of Records
Twitter
1355 Market Street, Suite 900
San Francisco, CA 94102
415-222-9670

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Twitter. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

17cv03263-1005

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

July 27, 2017

Custodian of Records WhatsApp
ZwillGen Law LLP
235 Montgomery Street Suite 425
San Francisco, CA 94104
650-489-0851

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to WhatsApp. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

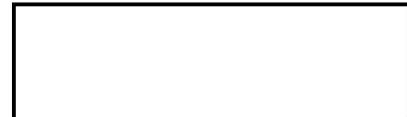

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

February 15, 2017

Custodian of Records
Twitter
1355 Market Street, Suite 900
San Francisco, CA 94102
415-222-9670

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Twitter. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

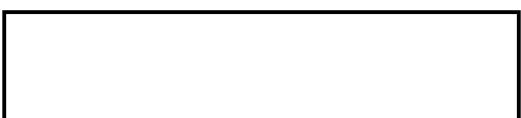

b7E -2

February 15, 2017

Comcast Communications

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Comcast Communications. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

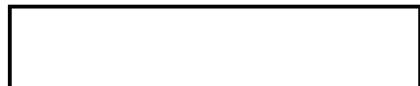

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

April 13, 2017

Experian

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

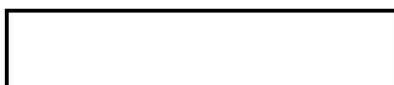

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

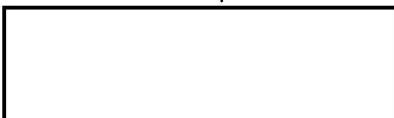

b7E -2

April 13, 2017

T-Mobile USA, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to T-Mobile USA, Inc.. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

June 16, 2017

AT&T, AT&T Mobility, or AT&T Corporate Security

b6 -1

b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1

b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to AT&T Internet Services. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

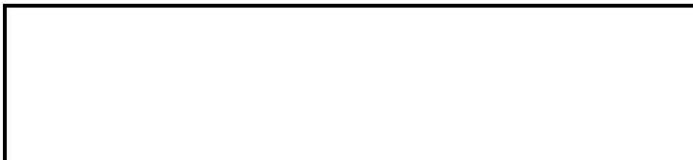

b7E -2

June 16, 2017

AT&T

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to AT&T. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

June 16, 2017

Equifax

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Equifax. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

June 16, 2017

Experian

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Experian. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

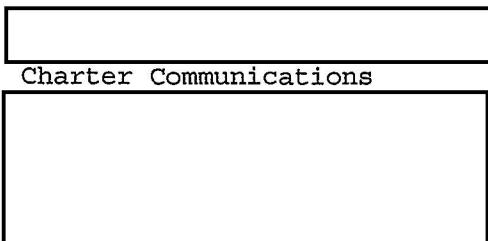

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

June 16, 2017

Charter Communications

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Time Warner Cable Road Runner. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

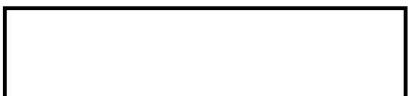

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

June 16, 2017

TransUnion

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 15, United States Code (U.S.C.) Section 1681v of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TransUnion. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have.

However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted]" and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

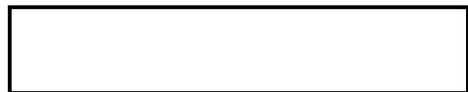

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

April 13, 2017

TracFone Wireless, Inc.

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TracFone Wireless, Inc., d/b/a Simple Mobile. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

April 13, 2017

Local Access, LLC

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Local Access, LLC . The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted]
FBI Field Office.

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

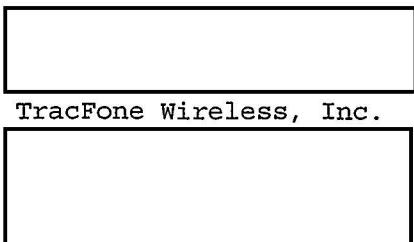

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

April 13, 2017

TracFone Wireless, Inc.

b6 -1
b7C -1

Dear [redacted]

b6 -1
b7C -1

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to TracFone Wireless, Inc., d/b/a Simple Mobile. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.

If you choose, you may disclose the NSL itself provided that doing so would be consistent with other legal obligations you may have. However, consistent with the relevant statute, the FBI requests that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent included on the NSL be redacted because disclosure may result in danger to the life or physical safety of a person. Please note that the name and telephone number of the FBI Special Agent might appear in two places on the NSL and should be redacted accordingly:

- In the paragraph discussing your right to challenge the NSL, in the sentence that reads, "That notice must be mailed or faxed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office, attention [redact name and telephone number], with a copy to FBI HQ, attention: General Counsel [redacted] and must reference the date of the NSL and the identification number found on the upper left corner of the NSL."
- Near the last page of the NSL, in a sentence that reads, "Any questions you have regarding this letter should be directed to the FBI [redacted] Field Office or attention [redact name and telephone number]."

b7E -2,4

b7E -2

Please direct any questions you have regarding this letter to the [redacted] FBI Field Office.

b7E -2

Sincerely,

b7E -2

U.S. Department of Justice

Federal Bureau of Investigation

File No. [redacted]

b7E -1

b7E -2

May 09, 2017

Custodian of Records
Facebook
1601 Willow Rd.
Building 18
Menlo Park, CA 94025
650-543-4890

Dear Custodian of Records:

Pursuant to Title 18, United States Code (U.S.C.), Section 2709 (Section 201 of the Electronic Communications Privacy Act of 1986), the FBI issued a National Security Letter (NSL) [redacted] to Facebook. The NSL included a nondisclosure requirement that prohibited you, any officer, employee, or agent of your company from disclosing the letter and that the FBI had sought or obtained access to information, other than to those to whom disclosure was necessary to comply with the letter or to an attorney to obtain legal advice or legal assistance with respect to the letter. Consistent with the requirements of the USA FREEDOM Act of 2015 and the Termination Procedures for NSL Nondisclosure Requirement, the FBI has reviewed whether to continue the nondisclosure requirement in the NSL and determined that nondisclosure is no longer necessary with respect to all information contained in the NSL except as set forth below.

b7E -1

Accordingly, and consistent with law, you may exercise your discretion to disclose the following:

- The fact that you received the NSL on a certain date;
- The customer account(s) for which information was sought; and
- Whether or not you provided responsive information to the FBI pursuant to the NSL.